I am looking to work in a positive, professional, and supportive environment, for a company with integrity.

Whilst my background details experience in the warehouse and logistics industry, 2020 and 2021 taught me that employment should be about satisfaction and fulfilment in any role. This realisation prompted me to undertake a complete career change away from warehousing and I am currently studying a Full Stack Development Course through Monash University.

This Full Stack Development Course covers all web development content of computer science applied to JavaScript, API interactions, browser technologies, databases, server side development, deployment / command-line fundamentals and quality assurance.

I believe on the successful conclusion of my studies will compliment my skills and abilities developed over my career and whilst my experience is vast, there are a number of key competencies that are transferable:

- Ability to problem solve – identify the problem & initiate actions to remediate.
- Communication – develop & build relationships both internal & external
- Planning & Organising – the logistic industry is all about organisation and forward planning

Additional education undertaken during my career includes, Diploma of Logistics Management, Diploma of Business Management and Certificate IV in Transport and Distribution (Warehousing & Storage). This combined with experience in the various operating systems and associated software applications in an industry environment has equipped me with valuable competencies to meet your needs.

I am confident that my skills together with my professional attitude, methodical approach and practical real world experience will enable me to perform well above expectations and am available for an interview at a convenient time. I can be contacted on 0432 596 961 or a/h 03 9449 0234.

I look forward to meeting with you to discuss this opportunity further.

Yours sincerely

Andrew Portou
